 MEDIA ADVISORY *****

U.S. COMMERCE SECRETARY CARLOS M. GUTIERREZ TO DISCUSS THE BENEFITS OF GLOBAL TRADE

- WHAT: U.S. Commerce Secretary Carlos M. Gutierrez will highlight the benefits of open markets to the U.S. and California economy during his remarks at the GE Hispanic Forum Leadership Summit, an annual opportunity for GE's top Hispanic employees to meet with business leaders from around the world to discuss key business initiatives and further develop their leadership talents. Gutierrez, joined by Fabiola Sojet, national executive, GE Colombia and Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce Vice-Chair, Timothy J. McCallion, president-west region for Verizon, will showcase specific U.S. made products that will benefit from reduced export barriers. The press availability will occur immediately after Secretary Gutierrez's remarks at the Summit.
- WHEN: Thursday, November 29, 2007
11:15 a.m. – Remarks in the Pacific Ballroom
11:45 a.m. – Press Availability
MEDIA CHECK-IN BY 11 A.M. PST
Members of the media interested in attending should RSVP to Ina Crespo, GE at (617) 519-4103. Media will be asked to give their full name and media organization.
- WHERE: Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce
350 S. Bixel St.
Los Angeles, CA 90017
- WHO: U.S. Commerce Secretary Carlos M. Gutierrez
Fabiola Sojet, national executive, GE Colombia
Timothy J. McCallion L.A. Area Chamber vice chair and president, West Region, Verizon
- WHY: Los Angeles is a global center for international trade, maintaining a 14 percent share of the nation's international trade by dollar value. It is important that the community continues to facilitate discussion on utilizing and expanding the opportunities that would allow improvement within the industry.
